

RULES

Cut out the word cards and put them in a stack upside down on the table.

Two teams – each consisting of two students – are fighting against each other.

A fifth student gets the job of taking the time using an egg timer.

One student tries to get his partner to guess the word/term at the top of the card.

- He is not allowed to use one of the three words underneath to describe his word/term. He is not allowed to make hand gestures etc..
- He is not allowed to explain his word/term using a different wordclass such as beauty to explain beautiful.
- He is not allowed to change into his mother tongue.

In 30 seconds the student is trying to get his partner to guess as many words as possible, while one of the competitors sitting next to him listens if he uses one of the forbidden words.

When time runs out, the game passes to the adjacent player of the opposing team.

Use counters. The ‘guesser’ receives one for a correct guess, the ‘reader’ loses one if he breaks one of the above rules.
